

Supported by an educational grant from

Recipient of HTRS/Novo Nordisk 2018 Clinical Fellowship Award in Hemophilia and Rare Bleeding Disorders

Allyson M. Pishko, MD

Fellow, Hematology/Oncology

University of Pennsylvania; Penn Comprehensive Hemophilia Program

Mentor: Adam Cuker, MD, MS

Dr. Pishko is currently a third-year hematology-oncology fellow at the University of Pennsylvania. She earned her undergraduate degree in Biology from the University of Notre Dame and then went on to medical school at the University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine. Her residency training was in internal medicine at Duke University. She is enrolled in the University of Pennsylvania Master's in Clinical Epidemiology Program. During her hematology-oncology fellowship, she had a longitudinal clinic with Dr. Adam Cuker in the Penn Comprehensive Hemophilia and Thrombosis Program. There she continued to develop her interests in bleeding and thrombotic disorders. For the year of the HTRS/Novo Nordisk fellowship, she will be a clinical instructor at Penn. With her mentor, she will study the impact of obesity on adverse joint outcomes in patients with hemophilia, preparing for a career treating patients with bleeding disorders as well as performing clinical research.