

HTRS invites you to join us for our second biennial Research Colloquium - a dynamic meeting focused on professional development and networking in benign hematology for:

- Basic Scientists
- Translational Researchers
- Clinicians/Physician-Scientists

April 21-22, 2020
Hyatt Regency Chicago, Wacker Drive, Chicago IL

Travel Awards are available for residents, post-docs, fellows, instructors and junior faculty within seven years of completing fellowship.

Scheduled directly before the 2020 THSNA Summit, the Colloquium targets early-stage investigators (MDs, DOs, MD/PhDs, and PhDs) who have completed fellowship and/or postdoctoral training and are working to build sustainable academic research careers in hemostasis and thrombosis. Third- or fourth-year medical fellows and/or postdocs may apply to attend if they can demonstrate an established commitment to building a research career in hemostasis or thrombosis upon completion of training.

The Colloquium will:

- Support the professional development of physician-scientists and basic/translational science investigators targeting early-stage investigators
- Provide a dynamic environment for networking that can lead to new mentor/mentee relationships and/or partnerships for collaborative research in hemostatic and thrombotic disorders

Early-stage investigators should register for a Travel Award by January 24, 2020 at 6:00pm ET

General Registration is open until April 17, 2020 at 6:00pm ET

For more information visit the Colloquium website at <https://www.eiseverywhere.com/website/4770/home/>