

Supported by an educational grant from

Recipient of HTRS/Novo Nordisk 2019 Clinical Fellowship Award in Hemophilia and Rare Bleeding Disorders

Jacqueline N. Poston, MD

Fellow, University of Washington/Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center
Acting Assistant Member, Bloodworks NW Research Institute
Mentor: Rebecca Kruse-Jarres, MD, MPH

Dr. Jacqueline Poston is a senior hematology fellow at the University of Washington/ Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center. She graduated from University of Oregon and then completed a year of research at the Oregon Health and Science University. Dr. Poston obtained her MD from the University of Chicago Pritzker School of Medicine and then completed her internal medicine residency at the University of Chicago. During her hematology fellowship,

Dr. Poston focused on understanding alloimmunization and autoimmune hematological diseases while developing a clinical passion for the care of patients with hemophilia and rare bleeding disorders. During her HTRS/Novo Nordisk fellowship and under the guidance of her mentor, Dr. Poston will develop a biorepository and immune assays to understand the underlying drivers of acquired hemophilia.