

CALL FOR APPLICATIONS

HTRS 2023 Research Colloquium

March 8-9, 2023

Renaissance Orlando at SeaWorld®, Orlando, FL

Prior to the HTRS 2023 Scientific Symposium

Application Deadline Extended: Friday, October 28, 2022

The Hemostasis & Thrombosis Research Society (HTRS) is accepting applications to attend the HTRS 2023 Research Colloquium, March 8-9, 2023 at the Renaissance Orlando at SeaWorld®. This non-CME education and career development event will be held prior to the HTRS 2023 Scientific Symposium (March 10-12, 2023).

About the 2023 HTRS Research Colloquium

The Colloquium is a 1.5-day, in-person workshop for early-career investigators (junior faculty) working to build sustainable academic research careers in hemostasis and thrombosis.

The goals of the Colloquium are to:

- Foster lasting connections between early-career investigators (junior faculty) that can lead to collaborative research
- Provide continuing education and career development support for junior faculty and/or postdoctoral attendees looking to build a sustainable research career in classical hematology

Event Agenda & Faculty

Visit <https://www.htrs.org/home/Meetings-Events/Research-Colloquium> to view the most current event agenda and faculty list.

Applicant Eligibility

- Attendance is limited to 30 in-person attendees - preference is given to early-career investigators (junior faculty)
- Ideal applicants are MDs, DOs, MD/PhDs, or PhDs within seven (7) years of completing medical fellowship and/or doctoral education/training
- Successful applicants will demonstrate an interest in furthering their academic research careers by networking with peers and Colloquium faculty experienced in clinical science, basic science, translational science, and industry-based research
- The Colloquium's agenda and learning objectives are designed by the members of the 2023 HTRS Research Colloquium Planning Committee, who ensure that event content is free from commercial bias
- The Colloquium does not offer Continuing Education (CE) credits; however, HTRS follows best practices in CE education to plan and coordinate the Colloquium

How to Apply

Apply online via the HTRS Survey Monkey Apply: Research Colloquium portal or copy and paste the link below into your browser:

https://htrs.smapply.org/prog/2023_htrs_research_colloquium_application/

Applications will be accepted until the new extended deadline of Friday, October 28, 2022 at 11:59 PM Eastern Time. Only complete applications that include all required document uploads will be considered by the review committee.

Application Materials

- Biosketch or CV
- Headshot (200 pixels by 200 pixels)
- Bio (500 words or less)
- Personal Statement (500 words or less) - explaining why this Colloquium is important to your career goals
- Letter of Recommendation (500 words or less) - letter written and signed by your mentor or director explaining why you are a good candidate to attend the Colloquium (optional)

Notification of Acceptance

Applicants will be notified by HTRS of acceptance via email on or before Wednesday, November 16, 2022 at 12:00 PM Eastern Time.

Accepted applicants receive:

- Round-trip travel expense reimbursement (not to exceed $750 USD). Travel to be booked by the attendee
- No-cost lodging for the night of March 8 at the Renaissance Orlando at SeaWorld®
- Meals provided during the event
- Waived registration to attend the HTRS Scientific Symposium immediately following the Colloquium from March 10-12

Questions?

Contact Danielle Horwitz, HTRS Meeting Manager, at meetings@htrs.org with any questions about the 2023 Research Colloquium or the application process.