

Endowed Chair – Inherited Bleeding Disorders

Company/Institution	Emory University School of Medicine and Winship Cancer Institute
Location:	Atlanta, Georgia, USA
Degree Requirements	DO, MD, MD/PhD
Job Type:	Research, Academic/ Administrative
Job Setting:	Hospital/Clinical Facility

The Department of Hematology and Medical Oncology at Emory University School of Medicine and The Hemophilia of Georgia Center for Bleeding & Clotting Disorders of Emory in Atlanta, Georgia seeks an interested, enthusiastic, and collegial faculty member to join the Hematology Division as the Sidney F. Stein Chair in Hemophilia and Hemostasis. This endowed chair is designed to support a physician-investigator at the Associate Professor or Professor level who is focused on the current and future care of adult patients with inherited bleeding disorders. The recipient of the endowed Chair will also have the opportunity to teach and mentor trainees of Emory University School of Medicine and support the Division and Center’s overall growth in hemostasis research. Candidates should be board certified in hematology and have a track record of clinical and research excellence. Competitive candidates will show evidence of leadership experience, a significant history of academic scholarship, experience in clinical research and education, and a strong clinical background.

Duties include administrative leadership, academic scholarship, clinical research, teaching, and community service. Clinical service responsibilities will include medical care of non-malignant hematologic disorders, focusing on hemostatic disorders, in the outpatient and inpatient settings, as well as consultative hematology services at Emory University Hospitals and/or Grady Healthcare.

About the Employer

Emory University and its Winship Cancer Institute is an NCI-designated Comprehensive Cancer Center is a leading research university that fosters excellence and attracts world-class talent to innovate today and prepare leaders for the future. We welcome candidates who can contribute to the diversity and excellence of our academic community.

We are an equal opportunity employer, and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, pregnancy and pregnancy-related conditions, disability status, protected veteran status or any other characteristic protected by law. Women and minority candidates are particularly encouraged to apply.

How to Apply

Interested individuals should submit their curriculum vitae with a cover letter detailing their qualifications and relevant experience to: David A. Frank, MD, PhD, Professor and Division Director, via email at david.alan.frank@emory.edu.

OR

Apply directly at: <https://faculty-emory.icims.com/jobs/78006/associate-professor-or-professor--hematology%3a-sidney-f.-stein-chair-in-hemophilia-and-hemostasis/job>